If Walls Could Talk

It has been said that, "You regret all the opportunities you never take." Our four years at Stoneham High School have presented us with an array of opportunities that have provided fond memories, new ideas, and the confidence to express our opinions. For the past four years, this school has encouraged us to grow as students and as human beings. On the surface, our class is extraordinarily talented both academically and in our extracurricular activities. These skills are evident to all. If the walls of SHS could talk, what would they say about the class of 2005? They would concur that the class of 2005 is not only filled with excellent students, but also with outstanding human beings. Over the past four years, the class of 2005 has proudly earned and maintained the reputation of being a passionate, respectful, and inspiring group of young people. Within these walls, we have found a place to express our ideas and challenge ourselves to work to the best of our abilities. The relationships between students and faculty have allowed us to develop into unique individuals with outlets for creativity and a desire for education in every aspect of life. With the guidance of our teachers, the class of 2005 has met the challenges of high school and of growing up. Stoneham High School has far surpassed expectations in helping to mold valuable human beings. Right now, as strong, compassionate, and bright individuals, we have exceeded our potential as students at Stoneham High School. With the future ahead of us we have the tools and the ability to survive, to thrive, and to succeed.

Class of 2005, as you step into your future, may you go beyond your own expectations and achieve all your dreams.

DEDICATION

"THE MIGHTY M'S"

Mr. Mongeau, Mr. Mucica, Mr. Mulvihill

The class of 2005 would like to go in an untraditional direction and dedicate the yearbook this year to not just one, but three, influential teachers. All three of these men have helped us formulate our opinions over the last few years. Their impact on us is immeasurable. We would like to recognize their unique teaching styles that force us to think in new ways day after day. These chosen teachers are known collectively as The Mighty M's: Mr. Mongeau, Mr. Mucica, and Mr. Mulvihill. They have been teaching at SHS for nearly a century in combined years and have served in a variety of positions. Though from different backgrounds, these three started working at around the same time and gravitated towards each other to become friends. Students began to confuse their names, and an exclusive club was born.

Their similar personalities and senses of humor shine through in their teaching methods and make learning fun for students. They represent the best of three distinct worlds: science, English and social studies. Together they craft well-rounded, inspired students prepared for their futures. These teachers succeed in their work because they take pride in what they do. They believe in everything they say and put a bit of themselves into everything they teach. Through all the years they've been teaching, they haven't lost their zest and continue to shock and amaze students in every attempt to help them learn. Everything about them is unconventional and that's what makes them memorable and fills their classes to capacity. These men are admired throughout the school and respected as intelligent representatives of their respective departments. This is why we dedicate our yearbook to these highly talented men. Either that, or we secretly wish we were worthy enough to join The Mighty M's.

SCHOOL DAYS

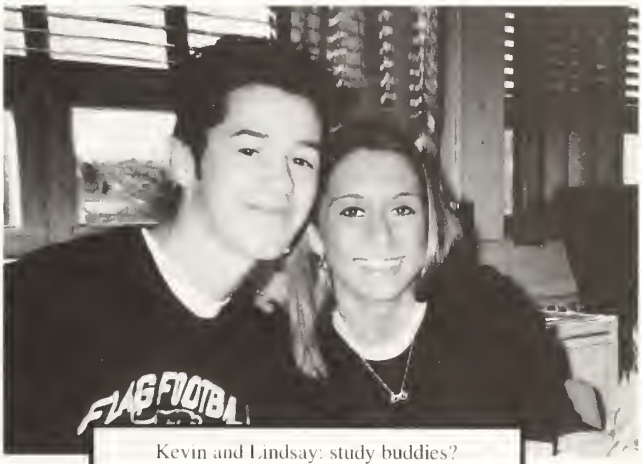
Kelly and Cristina use their thinking caps.



Kevin and Lindsay: study buddies?

FACULTY

The intelligent faculty of Stoneham High School has made a great impact on the Class of 2005 throughout the past four years. Since freshman year, our teachers have been determined to guide us and prepare us for life after high school. These influential teachers have developed into friends who have taught us life lessons alongside classroom lessons. The lessons they have taught us have helped us evolve into the young intellectuals we are today. If the walls at Stoneham High School could talk, they would say that the faculty has the extraordinary ability to teach their students memorable classroom and life lessons.

Annie

When the Stoneham High School Drama Club chose Annie as their 2004 musical, they had no idea what a monumentous occasion it would be. They had a lot to live up to; the tale of the little redheaded orphan is probably the most widely known musical of all time. Fortunately, the supreme talent of all 78 people and 2 dogs blended into a magnificent theatrical event! Set in 1933, this perky little musical tells the story of Annie, (Joelle Kross) a sweet little orphan who gets to spend an unforgettable Christmas with billionaire Oliver Warbucks (Matt Reopell) and his beautiful secretary, Grace (Lauren Creedon). And who could forget their adorable butler, Drake (Marc Picariello)? Meanwhile, the bitter matron of the orphanage, Miss Hannigan (Rocio Valles), her crooked brother Rooster (Dan Pecci), and his floozy girlfriend, Lily (Rebecca Warren) dream of a better life as they scheme to ruin Annie's happiness. But, it being a musical, everything works out in the end! President Roosevelt (Blake Coleman) even makes a few appearances. Rounding out the cast in various roles were senior thespians Jen Clinton, Liz Sheils, Jenna Gondelman, Robyn Migliorini, Jessica Jackson, Amanda Rourke, and the versatile Mark Trant, who carried the cast record of four roles. This stunning production was brought to life by the wonderful Ms. Danielle Catalano and her assistants: Jonathan Palazzolo, Alison Wilson-Pierce, and Simon Jay. Amazing dance numbers, such as the show-stopping tap dance for the adorable orphans (Amanda Buckley, Katia DeStefano, Emily DiPietro, Allie Landers, Amanda Paonessa, Alycia Sacco) were beautifully crafted by choreographer Amanda Paonessa and her assistants, Alycia Sacco and Kayla Catalano. The set, built under the guidance of technical directors Anne Fardy, Jennifer Gay, and Megan Carleton, changed seamlessly from orphanage to mansion to radio station to New York City in the capable hands of senior crew members Lauren Stamatis, Cassandra Fecho, Rebecca Warren, Kris Marquis, Jennifer Clinton, Jamie Doherty, Amanda Buckley, Robyn Migliorini, and Anne Catalano. Clare Connolly's lights added the perfect effects, especially the gorgeous New York City skyline that lit up behind a company production number. Laura Kelly and Jamie Doherty, assisted by Morissa Higer and Jessica Jackson, created costumes that beautifully captured the time period and characters, including Annie's famous red dress. Altogether, technical elements, soaring voices, and thrilling dances provided three hours of entertainment for the audiences who leapt to their feet nightly at the final curtain.

Alice in Wonderland

Paint faster, Brendan, the queen is coming!

Katia has perfected the art of being a frog.

Brian guards the queen with his life.

The audience tumbled down the rabbit hole when they walked into the auditorium for the Drama Club's production of Alice in Wonderland, and found themselves in a crazy land of hyperactive rabbits, purple felines, homicidal monarchs, insane haberdashers, and a turtle doing the robot. Fortunately for them, their assorted oddities were confined to the stage, where only curious little Alice (Lauren Creedon) had to interact with them. From the moment of Alice's arrival, she is greeted by two of the story's most memorable characters: a twitchy White Rabbit (Marc Picariello) and the deliciously '80s Chesire Cat (Alycia Sacco). As she journeys through Wonderland in search of the Queen, and a door that fits her key, several other interesting characters cross her path. A smoking polka-dotted caterpillar (Bryan Miner), a moral-spouting Duchess (Allie Landers) and her frog footman (Katia DeStefano) and cook (Alicia Silvestri), and a bunch of beautiful flowers (Jenna Gondelman, Robyn Migliorini, Kelly Landers, Danielle Sanford, Amanda Bratt, Danielle Doucette). And, of course, no Wonderland would be complete without the Mad Hatter (Mark Trant), the March Hare (Andrew Barbato) or the adorable Dormouse (Jen Clinton) and their ridiculous tea party. Alice next plays croquet with the infamous Queen of Hearts (Joelle Kross) and her co-rulers, the Queen of Spades (Rocio Valles) and the King of Hearts (Mike Testa). With the threat of execution hanging over her, Alice is relieved to find some entertainment in the thrilling battle of Tweedledee (Erik Scola) and Tweedledum (Kris Ingersoll), as well as in the poignant and moving songs (and dances) of the Mock Turtle (Emily DiPietro) and the Gryphon (Simon Jay). Other featured seniors were Brendan Hart as the Gardener/Seven of Spades, Brian Morales as the Nine of Clubs, and Liz Sheils as the Four of Diamonds. By the end of Alice's trial, she has discovered the way to get home, and bids a teary goodbye to her friends in Wonderland.

The cast and crew, under the direction of Ms. Danielle Catalano (and baby Zoe), assistant directors Jonathan Palazzolo and Mandy Paonessa, and stage managers Tina Blyde and Max Grover, outdid themselves bringing the show to life. Tech directors Jen Gay and Megan Carleton, with their assistants Natalie Salerno and Sam Furrier, and senior crew members Jen Clinton, Cassi Fecho, Kris Marquis, Robyn Migliorini, and Lauren Stamatis built a colorful and versatile set, well lit by Andrew Hume's lighting design. Props mistresses Amanda Buckley and Rebecca Warren rose to the challenge, all smiles! Laura Kelly and Jamie Doherty provided absolutely stunning costumes, with the help of their assistants Cassi Fecho, Leigh-Anne Hurley, and Amanda Lumb, and a crew of Alycia Sacco, Marc Picariello, William Moriarty, and Caitlyn Bryan. Finally, the makeup crew, under the guidance of Jenna Gondelman and Alycia Sacco, and the talented Liz Sheils and Robyn Migliorini, added the final touches to the characters, for a most memorable senior class play.

Suppress that dormouse!

WINTER CONCERT

On December 9, 2004, the High School auditorium was filled with music of the Chamber Chorus, two Jazz ensembles, the Spartan Chorale, and the Concert Band. The intermediate Jazz ensemble, conducted by Mr. Edmund Grammer, began the evening with Song For My Father and Blues for Terri. Senior members included Jessica Jackson on piano, Timothy Howe and William Jackson on bass guitar, and Rob Thomas on drums. The Chamber Chorus, under the direction of Mr. Robert Lague, followed with performances of The Water is Wide, Hey Ho the Morning Dew, and Let it Snow. Chamber seniors were Joelle Kross, Rebecca Warren, Jennifer Clinton, Robyn Migliorini, and Corie Costantino. Next, Jessica Jackson sang Angel Eyes, a beautiful jazzy solo accompanied by Mr. Lague. The Advanced Group of the Jazz Ensemble performed next, featuring solos by nearly all of its members. They played Bye-Ya, Europa, and Crib Chimp, with seniors Jessica Jackson back on piano and Kris Marquis on guitar. The Chorale took the stage next, performing I Know a Young Maiden Wond'rous Fair, Erev Shel Shoshanim, Twelve Gates, Seasons of Love, and highlights from A Chorus Line. This was the final winter concert for seniors Jennifer Clinton, Joelle Kross, Elizabeth McCular, Robyn Migliorini, Amanda Buckley, Barbara Colella, Corie Costantino, Angelica Costin, Michael Freeman, and Chris Sampson. The Band followed with the pieces, The Washington Post, Danse Macabre, Flamingos, The Hungarian Spirit, and Rhythmata. Senior members were: Lauren Stamatis, Megan Sutherland, Jennifer Gay, John Martin, Christopher Sacco, Rebecca Warren, Glenn Erickson, Kristofer Griswold, Bryan Nowell and Allie Landers. The 2004 Winter Concert concluded with the season-appropriate Sleigh Ride, a piece played with the combined efforts of the Spartan Band and Chorale.

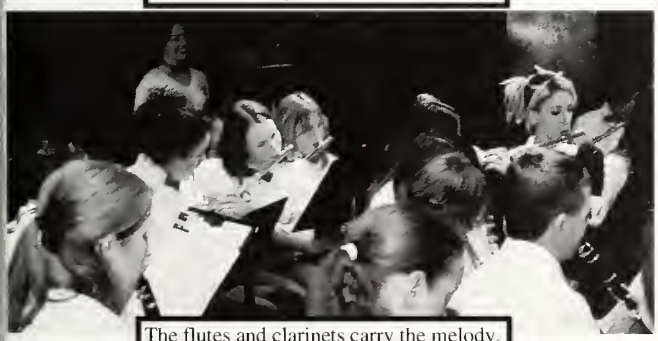
Scott and John jam with the Jazz Band.



The flutes and clarinets carry the melody.

The boys of the percussion section.

"Having performed in several SHS concerts, what has been your favorite part of performing?"

ANGELICA COSTIN

"My favorite part would have to be when the chorus and the band performed together."

JOHN MARTIN

"The best part of performing a piece is that after months of practicing and rehearsing with the rest of the band, you get a feeling of accomplishment from having finally performed it well."

BRYAN NOWELL

"My favorite part of performing is the feeling of success, when you know you have played your piece well and to the best of your ability."

JESSICA JACKSON

"My favorite part of performing has always been audience interaction and reaction; to actually see music influence another human being is ultimately a very rewarding experience."

On the night of Monday, February 7, 2005, years of hard work were rewarded when the Stoneham chapter of the National Honor Society inducted its newest members. Twenty-two juniors and two seniors were inducted, joining the forty other members of the Society. The inductees qualified for membership through their scholarship; all were required to have maintained a 4.0 or higher grade point average. From this initial group, the inductees then had to write an essay portraying personal excellence in service, leadership, or character. A council of faculty members eventually voted for the final membership. Mrs. Cargill and Ms. Freitas served as Society advisors, while the Society officers Rebecca Warren, Chung Lee, Lindsay Ring (via video), and Jonathan Palazzolo delivered speeches for each of the four National Honor Society qualities. Following this, Mrs. Nolan, the honorary speaker, delivered an inspirational and thought-provoking speech that challenged the inductees to consider the greater things to come. The school secretaries, Mrs. Appleyard and Mrs. Granese, were given honorary memberships in recognition of their devoted service to the school and its students. The Spartan Chorale, led by Mr. Lague, then filled the cafeteria with the music of Like An Eagle. Finally, the new inductees were welcomed into the National Honor Society with a candlelight ceremony, bringing the Society's membership to 64.

DramaFest

Throughout the month of March, the Stoneham High School Drama Club became a traveling acting troupe, journeying around the state to compete in the 74th annual Massachusetts High School Drama Guild Festival with their piece, Moliere's Tartuffe. This play is very difficult to pull off, because it involves a lot of physical comedy, deep understanding of the plot, and beautiful technical elements such as set and costumes. It tells the story of the foolish Orgon (Marc Picariello), who takes the stranger Tartuffe (Andrew Barbato) into his house, not realizing (as everyone else does) that he is a hypocrite and a con man. Added to this already complicated plot are Elmire (Rebecca Warren), Orgon's beautiful wife, a crotchety old woman (Katia DeStefano), her maid Flipote (Allie Landers), Mariane (Lauren Creedon) and Valere (Mark Trant),a pair of young lovers, Orgon's angry son Damis (Kris Ingersoll), and their quick-witted maid Dorine (Joelle Kross). They are backed by a strong ensemble, led by seniors Amanda Buckley, Mandy Paonessa, and Jenna Gondelman. What ensues is a gloriously silly farce, packed with all the essentials of a good festival play. And of course every one gets what they deserve in the end.

As always, the Drama Club crew did a stupendous job framing, clothing, and lighting the actors. The set, designed by Marc Picariello and built by senior crew members Jen Clinton Arthur Yeomelakis, Robyn Migliorini, Brendan Hart, Corie Costantino, Kris Marquis, Lauren Stamatis, and Cassi Fecho, under the guidance of technical director Jen Gay and assistants Sam Furrier and Natalie Salerno, perfectly showed the 17th century setting of the play. Seniors Laura Kelly, Jamie Doherty, Cassi Fecho, Jessica Jackson, and Jenna Gondelman made every single costume piece by hand, creating absolutely stunning dresses, capes, and coats. Max Grover's lighting included several "specials" such as a water effect, and the music of Andrew Hume's sound design underscored the scenes perfectly and kept the audience laughing. Senior props mistresses Rebecca Warren and Amanda Buckley added lovely details to the show, and always made sure the fruit basket was full! Finally, Ms. Catalano and her trusty sidekicks, assistant director Jonathan Palazzolo and stage manager Tina Blyde, breathed life into the show and made Tartuffe a success at Fest.

The spectacular performance at Andover High School during Preliminaries earned several awards, and was chosen to advance to Semi-Finals. Joelle Kross, Marc Picariello, Simon Jay, Lauren Creedon, and Andrew Barbato were recognized with All-Star Acting Awards, Max Grover received an Excellence in Lighting Design award, and Jenna Gondelman, Alycia Sacco, Allie Landers, Liz Sheils, Robyn Migliorini, and Kim Warren were rewarded for their Excellence in Hair and Makeup. Unfortunately, Tartuffe did not advance to Finals, but Marc, Andrew, and Max were once again honored with All-Star awards at Semi-Finals.

This year's Carnival Ball started off with a reminiscent air as retired Stoneham High teacher Mr. James Romano reprised his role of announcer and introduced Queen Rachel Pacini, King Michael DeSantis and their Royal Court: Megan McCarthy, Brianne Mosher, Anne Catalano, Hanna Wark, Kayla McKinnon, Silvana Ortiz, Ashley Hanson, Jacqueline LeFave, Christina Spinelli, Michaela Conserva, Kevin McCarthy, Jeffrey Corbett, Matthew Fitzpatrick, William Scullin, Jonathan Cheng, Robert Sargent, Christopher Sacco, Justin DeFilippo, Jason DeFilippo, and William Garafano. Master of Ceremonies Mark Trant, assisted by Amanda Buckley and Ashley Sullivan, led the evening. The theme was "Island Reality" and all the acts were part of a quest by Trant to find the next reality show blockbuster. The audience was entertained by the Concert Band with a medley from The Lion King, Stephanie Burns in a solo lyrical dance, The Rose sung by Jennifer Clinton and Erica Gould, the Chamber Chorus singing Walk on Down and the Spartan Chorale with the ever-popular Seasons of Love from Rent.

Still searching for that elusive hit show, the second act began with the Intermediate Jazz Ensemble playing Walkin'/ Groove Merchant followed by the Advanced Jazz Ensemble playing Pretzel/Logic/Pick Up the Pieces. Joelle Kross and Andrew Barbato sang the duet I'd Give It All For You from Songs for a New World. Amanda Paonessa performed a dance routine on pointe to Reflection and Jessica Jackson sang an original composition Wings accompanying herself on the piano. The class acts and faculty act ran true to form. The two nights ran smoothly thanks to Mr. Carino, student directors Hilary Anderson and Alison D'Orsi and the backstage crew.

FIELD HOCKEY

Captains Words

With the loss of nine seniors from the previous season, we knew it would be a challenge to rebuild a strong and determined team. Although we had the deceiving record of 4-10-3, we were a relentless team that continuously stayed in the game. Unlike past years, we worked together and improved as a team. Summer camps, pasta parties, and car washes are just a few of the activities that created a solid bond that will prevail even after the season has ended. The past four years have been memorable ones. We would like to wish the future players and captains the best of luck. We had a great time together and the memories that were made will last forever. We'll miss you guys!

GOLF

Captains Words

The SHS golf team took the course this year with many familiar faces and a determination to improve on their record of last season. After a summer of hard work at Unicorn Golf Course, the Spartans were ready to begin the season. The lineup was similiar to last year because the one senior had graduated. The one through five spots were locked up by seniors Jeff Corbett, Bobby Mercer, Nick Burke, Greg Burke and freshman Matt Brown. The six through eight spots alternated off between seniors Billy Garofano, Pat Houghton, and Steve Kenny and sophomores Eric Kenny, Krista Dougherty, Danny Killilea, and Scott Rago. Regardless of what number the person was playing that day, everyone contributed equally to the success of the team. The team started out fast winning their first two matches, but then suffered a tough loss to Winchester, and tied a match we could have easily won against Wakefield. It came down to the last match of the year, as the Spartans who were 4-5-1, hosted the 11-0-0 Woburn tanners. The Spartans needed to win in order to move to the State Sectional Qualifier, and the Tanners needed the win to be league champions. In the "Miracle On Grass," the Spartans defeated the Tanners, 37-35, and moved on to the state championship, finishing the year with a 5-5-1 record. Unfortunately, the Spartans were unable to qualify as a team for the state championship. Good luck to everyone, especially the seniors, who made the last four years possible.

VOLLEYBALL

Captains Words

After fundraising nearly nine thousand dollars in four weeks to have our team this season, we not only brought back the program, but we also bonded as a team. As the season progressed we became better players and learned to work together. Although other teams underestimated us, we surprised them with the amount of heart we played with. Each game was a challenge, but we played hard and never gave up. Our perseverence kept the score close in every match. With our "never die easy" attitude, we stuck together through thick and thin.

We will never forget the great memories, both on and off the court: from rallying back from an eighteen point deficit, to holding our own against Middlesex League champs Reading, to receiving the Middlesex League Team Sportsmanship award, to crazy mall outtings, t.p.-ing, and our constant dining at Low-Fat, Know-Fat. After coming to a season that almost wasn't, we came together, built great friendships, and completed a year not to be forgotten. Remember us seniors-Kent, Kayla, P.Stain, B-Unit, T-Vigz, and Kelly. Good Luck to next year's team. Shock 'em!

Lindsay bumps the ball up to the setter.

These seniors are all smiles after a hard-fought win.

GIRLS CROSS-COUNTRY

Captains Words

Cross-country is a sport unlike any other. Once the gun goes off, there is no turning back. In most sports, if you get tired or out of breath you can call a time out or be substituted, but in cross-country, there are no time outs, no half times, and no substitutions. You have to swallow your pain until you cross the finish line. Crossing the finish line gives you this incredible feeling of accomplishment that only a runner experiences. The 2004 cross-country team consisted of nine girls. Although a team this small may be a disadvantage for most sports, it was beneficial for us because we easily bonded and became very close with one another. All the girls were dedicated and worked extremely hard this season. We are fortunate enough to have an amazing coach who pushes and encourages us through every practice and meet. Even when we feel like giving up, Coach Norton is always inspiring us, with his wise words and past experiences as a high school cross-country runner, to endure the pain and finish each race as a strong runner. Cross-country is a huge part of my life and I am going to miss it greatly. I was lucky to be a part of such an awesome team. I know the girls will continue to work hard and be successful. Good luck next year! Love you always.

BOYS CROSS-COUNTRY

Captains Words

When running cross-country, it is important to keep your eyes focused on the course ahead of you. That is precisely what the boys did throughout the fall season. The season was in doubt when the team suffered a crushing defeat at the hands of Burlington in its second meet, but to its credit, the Spartans never lost their optimism. Throughout the season, there were strong showings of talent from both the upperclassmen and underclassmen on the team. The senior class was anchored by co-captains Randy Fixman and Brendan Mahoney. Randy was our top runner in nearly every meet and earned a spot on the Middlesex League All-Star team at the end of the season. Brendan was the team's vocal leader in most of the team's pre-race speeches. The junior class had strong showings from its lone veteran Matt Wantman, and also the newcomers Ross Pustell and Colin Sullivan. Possibly the strongest class on the team was the sophomore class consisting of Jason Buckley, Eric Nagy, Rob McDonald, Rob Stockbridge, Adam Vigneau, Alex Webb, and Mike Wall. Overall, the season was a success with a final record of 5-4, with wins over Belmont, Melrose, Watertown, Wakefield, and Woburn. The team's only losses were to Burlington, Reading, Winchester, and the perennial powerhouse Lexington. It is probably important to recognize that this team was closer than a record of wins or losses or any captains words could hope to show. Even with meets in the rain, snow, and blistering heat, this team kept running together to the very end. Ranging from the races to the long days (or even nights) in the weight room and also on the track, it would appear that success is in the immediate future of the Stoneham boys cross-country program. With victory in its crosshairs, our advice to any other program is to watch out.

Captain Brendan Mahoney, Coach Riley, and Captain Randy Fixman

Colin Sullivan, off to a great start.

Randy pushes for a personal best.

Rob has a powerful stride.

And they're off!

FALL CHEERLEADING

Captains Words

This year the fall cheerleading team had one of the most successful seasons in recent memory. After being sponsored by an anonymus donor, the cheerleaders began working on their cheers, half-time show, and competition routine. With the choreographic help of a past SHS cheerleader and an immense amount of hard work from the team, we managed to pull everything together and tie for sixth place at the league competition.

We've braved the cold and the rain to cheer for both the soccer and football teams. We've shared both victory and defeat with them. As always, the soccer tournament run was an exciting time for us as we cheered them all the way to their second state championship.

After everything we've gone through, the cheerleading team has emerged as a tight knit group. We will miss you all. Thanks to all our teammates for making this year fun. Seniors: Nick Vasques and Megan Doody. Juniors: Kelly Brown, Megan Daly, Chantelle Delorfano, Jen Grossi, Kelly McDermott, Danielle See, Justine Yandle, and Fiona Ye. Sophomores: Alyssa White and Stephanie Walsh. Freshmen:Megan Cunningham, Nicole Dalamangas, Melissa Gregory, Tory Iovanni, and Jasmine Pham.

Captains Words

Finished business! This seems to be the words coming from everyone involved in S.F.C., and we couldn't be happier. This year we had another great season. In fact we now hold the best record ever at SHS (23-0-1) and are proud of it. We managed to wrap up the Middlesex League, Division III North title and Eastern Mass championship for the third straight year, an amazing accomplishment! Also, we made it to the state finals for the third year in a row and finally took home the trophy. We were honored by being ranked #1 in the state, and top 50 in the nation. However, what we accomplished this year wouldn't have been possible without the enormous support of our student body, faculty, trainers, and friends. As a team, we couldn't have asked for a better coaching staff; Sir James Carino, Mr. Zampell, Mr. Harrington, Mr. Seabury, and Mr. Serino have been there with us through thick and thin. Being a part of S.F.C. throughout high school has given us many fond memories. We will never forget the last four years.

Captains Words

Although our record of 7-8-3 does not seem very impressive, it is impossible to think that our 2004 fall season was not successful. We can safely say that our team this year was one of the closest girls soccer teams Stoneham has ever had. Out team unity, camaraderie, and spirit were notable both on and off the field. Missing the State Tournament by only one point did seem unfair, but the memories we created were priceless. Even though we were banned from toilet papering early on, we made the season fun. From our amazing pasta parties to going to the Revolution game, our team always had a good time everywhere we went. Practices were not only a time to work on tactical skills, but also a time full of singing and countless obsessions with just about every male, young or old. When it came to game time, we were all business, but just caught some "unlucky" breaks, like our loss to Wakefield with eight seconds left. One of the many highlights of the season includes our Winchester game. This 0-0 tie kept us in the running for the tournament and got us a free dinner courtesy of Ms. Chapman. Throughout the whole season our team made so many memories that we will never forget and will forever treasure. And just remember:

"We all need somebody to lean on."

Captains Words

The 2004 season began with little experience. The Spartan campaign was led by only a handful of returning starters who pulled the team together and stepped up to the challenge. The record of this squad was not indicative of their true ability. Consisting mainly of outstanding underclassmen, this team fought for every inch every Friday night. This team clearly showed that they could play with the league's elite teams of Melrose and Reading, and also gave the program its first home win in numerous years. The Spartan team was led by its five seniors, Joe Caiazzo, Steve Carrozza, Kyle Ingersoll, Jason DeFilippo and Rich O'Donnell who played their hearts out every night. They will remember a team in 2004 that fought through adversity and never gave up. We would like to wish the 2005 Spartan team, which will be a good one, the best of luck next year.

SWIMMING

Captains Words

The girls of Stoneham High's varsity swim team were proud to celebrate a successful season. Comprised of many strong athletes, our team was able to place ahead of some of our rivals at league meets. Our second season as an independent team proved to be a strong one as more and more girls show promise for the future. We worked hard and managed to send our team to sectionals and eventually to states. As the last four original swimmers, the seniors are grateful for the opportunity and we have enjoyed the run. Congratulations on a great season; swim it, live it, love it, always!

Captains Words

This past indoor season was altogether a good showing for the Stoneham Boys' team. Though finishing a mediocre 5-4, the Spartans were almost able to capitalize on two of those losses for wins, barely being defeated by only a marginal amount in both occasions. The core of the team, or varsity point scorers, was comprised of seniors and juniors, with a few underclassmen. Season highlights were a tight 45-41 loss to Reading, Joe Staub being named League MVP, and the tri-captains all making it to All-State competition. Next year brings forth new challenges, especially for many of the young athletes who have to step up to the plate and "bring home the bacon," per se. Good luck, boys, this season was something that will be remembered forever.

Chris is ready to run.

Joe clears the high jump bar with grace.

GIRLS TRACK

Captains Words

A track team is made up of a group of individual athletes working to benefit the team as a whole. This season we had a diverse group of all ages, each adding their own particular talents to help our team progress. Although there were a lot of newcomers, there was a great deal of natural talent, which brought hope for the team. This team was a close group with the drive, determination, and eagerness to learn. Despite the fact that the efforts of the indoor girls' track team does not show in our record for the season, many individuals met and exceeded expectations and continued to improve personal goals. The bond of the team and the fun experiences, such as singing our traditional "I Will Survive," is what brought our team closer together. Thanks to the experienced and patient coaches, our new members were able to learn the techniques and strategies of track. Also, the returning members of the team had a chance to develop not only as athletes, but also as young leaders. The season was a great one due to the hard work of the coaches and the young ladies, who always gave their all for the good of the team.

GYMNASTICS

Captains Words

The Stoneham High School Gymnastics team had a great year. We started off the year strong going 2-1, and setting a new school record with a team score of 136.3, almost a full point above the previous record. Unfortunately, after that we were plagued with injury, losing a top gymnast for the rest of the season. The team finished third in the league with a record of 4-3 and continued on to the East/Central Sectional tournament. Everyone on the team improved immensely this year. Numerous personal bests were broken and Taylor See broke all the school's individual records. We had two gymnasts advance to the state individual tournament. Nick Vasques made it for beam and floor. Taylor See was in it for all around, was seeded second and finished second in the state. We had a tough season but, in the end it was worth it. Thank you, girls, for all the memories; they'll stay with us forever.

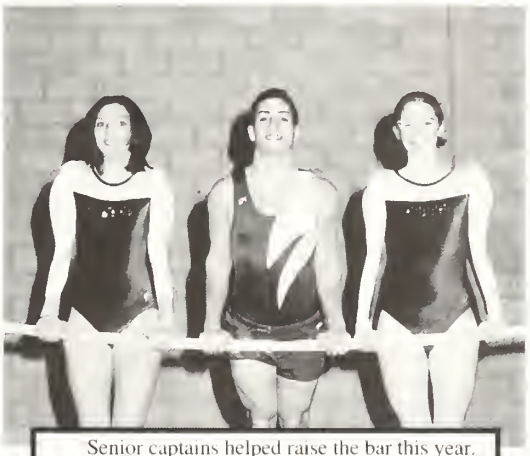
Shannon was a force to be reckoned with on beam, floor and vault.

Stella swung to the top of the bars this year.



Senior captains helped raise the bar this year.

Ashley had a great season with personal bests on all events.

Rachel popped onto the scene this year as a strong vaulter.

Very flexible, Nick competed all-around this year and made states.

Sam Molle--the perfect balance of grace and skill.

Shannon: always putting her best foot forward.

BOYS BASKETBALL

Captains Words

Our team this year was reloaded with seniors and had tournament aspirations. Although we fell short of our goal, we worked hard and had plenty of fun. We started off slow with a 1-7 record in our first 8 games. We made a run in the second half of the year going 6-6 in our last 12 games, which could have been better with tough losses versus Woburn and Wakefield. Some of our better wins were against solid teams such as Belmont and Winchester. Seniors included John Collier, Mike DeSantis, Domenic Previte, Nick Burke, Jimmy Palmer, and Jason DeFilippo. We want to wish next year's team the best of luck.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

Captains Words

This past season we learned that when we work as a team we win as a team. Going into the season we knew we were going to be young having lost 5 seniors last year and having only 2 seniors return this year. But as the season progressed no one who watched us play would have known. From the pre-season scrimmages all the way through the much-anticipated tournament we showed heart, ambition, and determination every step of the way. Looking back, we will never forget the obstacles we overcame and the accomplishments we have achieved. Beating Watertown twice to keep them from going to the tournament, coming back from a 12 point deficit to beat Burlington, and playing tough with Woburn into an intense overtime are just a few highlights of our season. Corb, Clarissa, Amber, O'Meara, and Jessie - have fun next year, because it will be over before you know it. Tooch, Cail, Krista, Leah, and Hoy - you've got a few more years to keep Kevin J. smiling. We'll miss all of you so much and we'll definitely come back to watch you play next year.

The team huddles up to plan strategy.

Rachel gets ready to set a pick.

WINTER CHEERLEADING

Captains Words

This cheerleading season was definitely one of the toughest and the most bizarre and fun. The team consisted of nine freshmen and we knew then it would be a challenging season. We had our fair share of fights, laughs, and tears, yet it tended to bring us closer. Whether it was playing DDR with the hockey team, or someone dancing with a player from the opposing basketball team, we always had some laughs. We will never forget comparing teammates to greek salad or feta cheese. The freshmen whom we were worried about in the beginning proved to be a great contribution to the team. Our greatest accomplishment would definitely be our second place finish in the competition. The hard work we put in made the reward that much greater. The best part of that night was waiting for our turn and seeing almost the entire basketball team walk in, there to cheer us on. That was a great motivator for us . In the beginning of the season none of us would have thought we could pull it off with such a young team, but we managed to do it. This was definitely a great last season for us.

BOYS HOCKEY

Captains Words

A record does not reflect the effort or the camaraderie a team possesses. Overall, we were disappointed with our end result, but it seemed that each and every day we came to the rink with the same enthusiasm and love for the game. Jeff Corbett, Mike Muolo, and Kevin McCarthy had little to do as captains because it seemed that each player knew what they had to do. The senior-laden lineup was always there to pick up right where the captains left off. John Havican, though small in stature, had the biggest heart of anyone. Kevin McMillan was always there to light the lamp when it counted. Pat Houghton, a stalwart defenseman, gave us the depth as the rearguard. Joe Capuano, how can one forget, never ceased to make the stunning save. Aaron Feinberg, although he would say his sport is not hockey, gave his all, and every shift would rattle the boards with the best of them. We missed you, Brian Richardson and Chris Sampson. The Juniors, Sophmores, and Freshmen will take the reins from the seniors with no problem; they proved that this year. Good luck to all of the future teams. We now make our exit and will leave this quote: "Ride or die."

Captains Words

As some of you may know , this has been our first year in the Varsity level. Although we may not have the best record, it was a good experience. Each year, we have improved as a team, but also as individuals. Despite our losses, we always managed to come out of the locker room in a good mood. The girls got along well and it helped make the season more enjoyable. We had many team outings including pasta parties. Hopefully, in years to come, we can continue to improve and achieve our goals. We are definitely looking forward to another year at the varsity level, and we hope to end next season with a better record.

RED SOX: WORLD CHAMPIONS!

Well, it finally happened: the Red Sox won the World Series! 86 years of pain put to an end for Red Sox fans everywhere. Best of all, the Sox made an historical comeback after losing three games to the dreaded Yankees to claim the American League title then won four straight against the St. Louis Cardinals. The curse was reversed and Stoneham seniors showed their support.

MEMORIES

Reminiscing through my high school years, one of the most prominent memories that comes to mind is my trip to Costa Rica. Traveling to Costa Rica for a week with a group of my classmates, I not only learned a lot about the country, but also had a great time. We explored different parts of the country through hikes and activities like zip-lining five thousand feet above the ground through the forest, kayaking, and white-water rafting. We swam in natural hot springs, and viewed breathtaking landscapes, including an active volcano. Perhaps the most memorable part of the trip was when we stayed at a camp called Punta Mond where the water was a mysterious yellow and the bedrooms were infested with cockroaches. We moved the mattresses out onto the porch where we spent the night. Our tour guide, Jose, a native Costa Rican, was a true comedian, who had fun with us while educating us on the flora and fauna of the land, as well as the history and customs of the country. Although as a group we were not students you might immediately place with one another, after spending over a week together, we truly grew closer as friends. On the trip we really learned a lot about each other and ourselves. We encouraged and supported each other in trying new things and we challenged ourselves in new ways. I feel extremely fortunate to have been able to travel to Costa Rica and experience the diverse culture and lifestyle. Pura vida!

It was the Day of Silence. I had been silent that whole morning. I had been so lucky in my young life and in my experiences that I felt I had to make up for all the silence I never had to endure. Many other kids I had met talked of these horror stories and terrible tragedies of friends and family scarred just for being who they are. Leaving Revere High I was told that Stoneham would tear me down. A conservative town like this would never accept a seventeen year old lesbian. God, were they ever wrong. There I was, standing in the library with a sea of familiar faces and rainbow ribbons. It was all in respect for those who had had to face the silence I never had to, thanks to the warm hearts of the Stoneham High students.

I stepped up the stairs, decked out in the rainbow paraphenalia my girlfriend had hidden in her car. Smiling faces watched me as I cleared my throat and told them all from the bottom of my heart I could not have been more thankful for the freedom I was given because they never looked at me as anything other than Megan, their new friend. At that moment I knew there had to be hope in this world if a group of teenagers could look at me as me. Thank you Stoneham High, I could not love you any more for what you've done for me. Thank you for the wonderful memories you brought me. Don't ever change, the world needs many more people like you.

One memory that has stayed with me for the last three years is from Mr. Jackson's Earth Science class freshman year. One spring day, our small class of twenty kids piled into the minibus driven by Action Jackson himself, and headed to the beach. On the way, we made a surprise detour to the Square One Mall, not to shop, but to examine the erosion of the rocks behind the mall. After a few minutes of standing on the edge of the highway staring at a big rock, Mr. Jackson finally allowed us back on the bus. Next stop: Singing Sands beach. The beach is so named because of the 'singing' noise the sand made when you walk on it. As our class spread out along the beach, we heard the beach barking at us. It was the most bizarre experience I'd ever had at a beach. After frolicking for a while, Mr. Jackson brought us back to the subject at hand, and we examined rocks along the shore and deciphered various types.

Despite all the fun I had that day at the beach, the most memorable moment of the day occurred on the way home. Mr. Jackson had turned the radio on, but the soft rock tunes could barely be heard over everyone's chatting voices. However, when Edwin McCain's I'll Be came on, a few people began to sing along with the cheesy love song. By the middle of the song, the entire bus, our whole class, was singing along to the sappy ballad. Even Mr. Jackson realized it was a cute moment, and he turned up the radio. But after the song was over, we all took our arms back down from our friends' shoulders and returned to chatting on about nothingness. It only lasted a couple minutes, but I know I will remember that moment, and that field trip, for a long time.

My favorite memory at SHS was the Winter Cheerleading Competition sophomore year. The competition was hosted by Stoneham, so it was especially important that the team perform well. We worked so hard and the reaction of our fans proved that they recognized our improvement. We came in third place in the Middlesex League, falling only to Wakefield and Melrose. It was the first medal SHS Cheerleading had brought home in a long time.

I will never forget our bond that year. Our excitement and anxiety before going onto the floor was incredible. We huddled together during DJ Sammy's Heaven and listened to an inspiring talk from our coach. The chants and cheers after the line "We are the team that leaves you begging for more!" gave us ten times the enthusiasm we started with and we finished the cheer without a hitch. We even qualified for regionals and experienced as much fan support in Gloucester as in Stoneham! It was truly one of the most exciting experiences I had in high school.

- Lindsay Ring

My memory has to do with last year's junior prom. It was my first year attending Stoneham High School, and I had met a lot of people, but didn't really feel accepted. Then, at the junior prom, a bunch of the guys were getting together for a group picture. I asked Steve Kenny if I could get in on the picture, and his response was "Definitely, Kelly, you're one of us now!" At that moment, for the first time in my first year at Stoneham High, I felt accepted. Thank you Steve and the rest of the people I have met in Stoneham.

- Adam Kelly

My fondest memory through high school has been hockey. In addition to having a love for the sport, I have had the pleasure of playing with some great people. Even freshman and sophomore year when things did not go so well, I still looked forward every day to "lacing them up." Last year was amazing, with the team making the tournament and beating Reading for the first time in ten years. It has been quite a ride, nicely ending Christmas. I couldn't ask for a better group of guys to share a locker room with. Special thanks goes to my fellow seniors: Cappy, Hav, Dinks, Lou Griff, McMillan, B-Rich, Houghton, and my co-captains, Corbo and Mules. Thanks to each and every person who made each snipe, hit, win, loss, and dangle the best they could possibly be.

- Kevin McCarthy

Waking up at five o'clock in the morning was never such an anticipated event. The day that the French Club left for Quebec, we were on the bus hours before sunrise. Early that morning, we only knew the stereotypical Canada, famous for its snow, its hockey, and its maple syrup. But three days in the Old City completely and permanently altered our personal and collective perspectives on Canada.

Eight hours and a showing of Better Off Dead later, we stepped off the bus into unfamiliar territory. The picturesque cobblestone streets offered a glimpse into the history of Quebec City, though still lined with contemporary restaurants and shops. Even the street signs and billboard fascinated us (Il a ton nez!). We quickly befriended our tour guide, Frankie. He filled long bus rides with discussions about love and music. He even taught us songs about Bobby Pin that we're still singing over a year later.

The French Club visited some breathtaking places, such as the St.-Anne-de-Beaupre Basilica, and the Montmorency falls. The visit to the armory was a little more... painful for some. One of the best nights was spent at a traditional sugar shack eating phenomenal food, dancing, and playing our our own "musical instruments." The club also spent several hours on a scavenger hunt, getting lost in search of statues and forging friendships in the process. The memories we made exploring a new country will last forever, and we're grateful to Mrs. Lee for giving us the opportunities she did.

Nicholas Vasques

My baby all grown up!

You have accomplished so much in the last 4 years, as I know you will in the next 4 years. You are very talented and I'm wicked proud of you! Just be "happy," this is what counts the most! I love you!

Mom, Dad and Sabrina

Brian DeVirgilio

Our champ!

You've always been a great guy, and over the last 12 years you've given us so many reasons to be proud. Your many accomplishments at school, both off and on the field, are a true testament to the awesome person you are. Continue to follow your heart and you will always do well. Good luck in college!

Love, Mom, Dad and Mike

Amanda Pearlstein

MAY ALL YOUR DREAMS COME TRUE!

We wish you success and happiness in all your future endeavors. Follow your dreams. We love you.
Love,
Mom, Dad, Sara and Sassy

We believe in you!

Congratulations! You have reached your goal - you're off to college. Your hard work and persistence have paid off! You have been blessed with many talents and abilities. Your positive attitude, dedication and caring ways have brought us nothing but pride. Best of luck in the future and remember, we are always there for you!
Love and God Bless you always!
Mom & Dad

"The marvelous richness of human experience would lose something of rewarding joy if there were no limitations to overcome. The hilltop hour would not be half so wonderful if there were no dark valleys to traverse."
-- Helen Keller

Jonathan Fraser

YOU ARE THE LIGHT OF OUR LIVES

Twelve years have come and gone. Now it's time to use what you have learned to make your dreams come true. Congratulations!
Love,
Mom & Dad

Ali D'Orsi

YOU'RE WONDERFUL!

We are so proud of all your accomplishments. You are very special to us.
May all your dreams come true.
Love,
